Laval Blames France's Woes On Old Chiefs

NICHY, Unoccupied France, April 20.—(P)—Speaking tonight amidst new stirrings of unrest and Nazi orders for the execution of 30 more Frenchmen, pro-Axis Pierre Laval branded France's 1939 declaration of war a "crime" and told the French people the condition for peace in Europe lay in friendship between France and Germany.

In his first broadcast as chief of government, Laval placed blame for France's predicament upon the old republican regime, declaring that he had "no responsibility whatever in the misfortune which has befallen us."

He appealed to Frenchmen to support his new government with the assertion that their choice now lay between rapprochement with Germany or "seeing our civilization disappear."

Denies Foreign Influence.
Referring to the Anglo-Saxon powers, he said that "In the past I never have accepted or submitted to any foreign influence, and such is the explanation of the unpopularity of passions to which I am often subjected, above all in England."

"My thoughts go especially to those among you who have suffered the attacks of our former ally, all the more fierce against our territories because she is incapable of protecting her own," he bitterly anti-British Laval continued.

"After having led us into war, after having abandoned us in battle, she tried to destroy our fleet, she killed our sailors and starved our people."

"Today her airplanes are again in French skies; after deserting us in a moment of danger they (the British) would complete the destruction of our homes which the battles have left unscathed."

"Like An Obsession."
Reaching an understanding with Germany, Laval said, was "like an obsession" with him.

After recalling the meeting he arranged between Chief of State Petain and Adolf Hitler at Montoire, at which the policy of collaboration was arranged, Laval asserted:

"Since Montoire, since October, 1940, the war has been extended to all continents and taken on new significance. To the reasons which determined us to seek a policy of accord and reconciliation with Germany there have been other reasons which are even more compelling."

"The gigantic battles which Germany is waging against Bolshevism," he said, "not only extended the war but have revealed its meaning. Do you believe that the Soviets, if they were the winners, would halt at our frontier?"

Thousand-Piece Massed Band To Be Directed by Paul Yoder

PAUL YODER

Noted Musician to Judge Constitution's Great Free Festival.

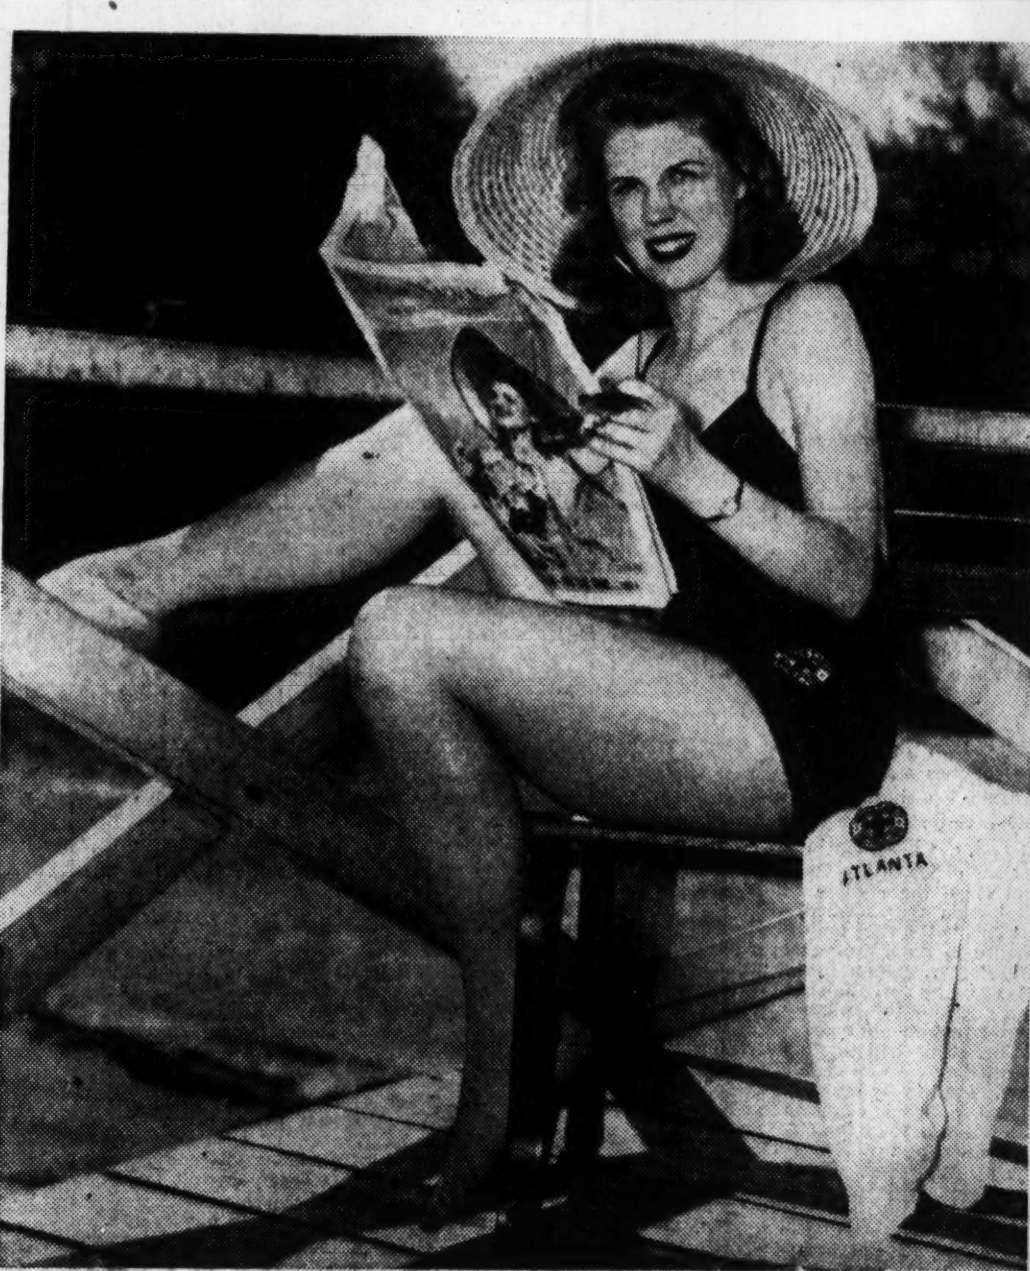

By FRANK DRAKE.
Paul Yoder, of Chicago, nationally known young music arranger and band director, will be brought to Atlanta by The Constitution to conduct the fourth annual Greater Atlanta Music Festival to be given free Saturday night, May 9, at Grant Field, it was announced yesterday.

Yoder will also judge the baton twirling contests in which the Georgia champions will be selected and awarded valuable prizes by this newspaper.

The Chicagoan is only 33 but he holds an enviable reputation among band musicians throughout the country. He has composed over 100 original pieces and has made the band arrangements for more than 300 other numbers, being listed in the catalogues of 35 music publishers throughout the United States.

He will arrive in Atlanta Friday.

ATLANTA LIFEGUARD, 1942.—Last year the lifeguards charmed the young bathing beauties. But this year the bathing girls are the lifeguards. Atlanta fell short of lifeguards this year with only 13 of last year's more than 100 available, so girls like Miss Alice Cheesman, of 1098 Spring street, volunteered. Maybe the year's swimming safety-gal doesn't seem to be in the water very much, but it's more or less characteristic of the profession to bask in the sun until the "SOS" comes in. They began special instructions yesterday. (Other Pictures on Page 6.)

News Service Plays Cupid To Atlanta Girl

From "somewhere in the south Pacific" last night an Atlanta girl received a relayed message from her "boy friend" that he was having the time of his life fighting the Japanese.

The girl is Helen Kilpatrick, of 981 Columbia avenue, N. E., secretary to the manager of a film concern, and the message came to her via news dispatches from the Pacific war zone.

Her "boy friend," Lieutenant Jim Oliver, of Atlanta, was aboard a plane which destroyed a Japanese merchant ship in a recent raid, according to a press service story.

In telling the correspondent of the raid, Lieutenant Oliver asked that his parents, Lieutenant and Mrs. J. B. Oliver, of Fort Jackson, S. C., and Miss Kilpatrick be notified that he was having "the time of my life."

The young lieutenant's father formerly was stationed at Fort McPherson, and at one time served in the Philippines.

The younger Oliver, 23, graduated from the Army Flying School at Maxwell Field, Ala., last July. He was stationed for a while in Hawaii and later he was heard from in Australia.

Miss Kilpatrick said she was "thrilled" when a Constitution reporter read her the message from Oliver. She admitted she is now wearing Lieutenant Oliver's Army Air Corps insignia—"if that means anything."

She heard from him about two weeks ago by cablegram, she added.

Lieutenant Oliver's plane was one of nine which raided a Japanese port and airdrome, hitting several ships and destroying planes on the ground.

Met's 350 Due Today For 3 Days of Opera

By EUGENIA BRIDGES HARTY.
The Metropolitan Opera Company, 350 strong, on a two-section special train, will pull into the Terminal Station at 9:20 o'clock this morning to open Atlanta's three-day season of opera at 8 o'clock tonight with Bizet's "Carmen."

The officers of the Atlanta Music Club, sponsors of the annual Met presentations here, will meet the stars, conductors and officials. A parade from the station to the Biltmore hotel, headquarters for the opera festivities, will follow, complete with motorcycle escort.

At the station there will be reunions of old friends, relatives and introductions to the newcomers. The "Hey, how-ya's" will outnumber the "Glad-to-meet-cha's." But there will be some of the great artists who have never set foot on our particular brand of terra firma before.

Sir Thomas Beecham, the distinguished British conductor who will present his own revival of Bizet's opera-comique tonight, will be among the newcomers. It is his first appearance anywhere in the southeast. His star, Lily Djanelli, who sings the role of the gypsy girl, arrived at the Biltmore hotel Sunday night for her first visit to the southeast. These two first-nights, new to Atlanta music-lovers, are reputed to make "Carmen" the Met's hit of the season.

Bruno Landi, tenor star of "The Barber of Seville," is another of the initiates into Atlanta's opera festivities. There has not been an important "Count Almaviva" at the Met in a long time, the role which Landi will sing here Wednesday night. Atlanta music-lovers are looking hopefully to him, for the critics have been unusually generous with their superlatives about his reading of this important role.

Another tenor star, Raoul Jobin, will step off at the Terminal station for the first time. He co-

First Woman Gunner Killed in British Action

LONDON, April 20.—(P)—Eighteen-year-old Nora Caveney of the ATS (Auxiliary Territorial Service) is the first girl to be killed in action while helping operate Britain's anti-aircraft batteries.

When German bombers raided the south coast early last Friday a bomb splinter tore through the sandbags protecting her post.

Offensive War Demanded by G.O.P. Chiefs

CHICAGO, April 20.—(P)—The Republican national committee tonight demanded that the nation prosecute an offensive, uncompromising war until peace with victory is attained and declared that the United States should assist in bringing about co-operation among the countries of the world in the postwar era.

A resolution embodying those sentiments was approved by the committee at its first meeting since Pearl Harbor, and Wendell Willkie, the party's 1940 presidential nominee, commented quickly that it represented an "abandonment of isolation."

Walter S. Hallahan, of West Virginia, who presented Willkie's proposals for a stand against isolation to the committee, contended that the pronouncement was a victory for Willkie.

Pertinent Paragraphs.
Pertinent paragraphs in the statement endorsed by the committee were these:

"We demand the prosecution of an offensive war, relentlessly and without reservation, whatever it may cost in wealth, energy and human life, until the United States and its Allies have won a complete victory over their enemies."

"We will recognize no peace with those enemies except PEACE WITH VICTORY, and we will never entertain any proposals of peace until such victory has been achieved. There shall be no appeasement or compromise."

"We realize that after this war the responsibility of the nation will not be circumscribed within the territorial limits of the United States; that our nation has an obligation to assist in the bringing about of an understanding, comity and co-operation among the nations of the world in order that our own liberty may be preserved and that the blighting and destructive processes of war may not again be forced upon us and upon the free and peace-loving peoples of the earth."

The statement, as brought out of the resolutions committee, incorporated points and, in some passages, the language of proposals offered by Willkie; Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Senator Wayland Brooks, of Illinois. All espoused a full-force war, but Willkie also advocated approval of an active role for the United States in world affairs.

Taft Differs.
"I think it is a great mistake for the national committee to have expressed any policy at all on post-war action," Taft stated. "But the committee has drawn the teeth of the Willkie proposal so that no one can take exception to the language employed."

Willkie, in a statement from New York released by a representative here, maintained that the resolution "adopts principles of international relations which are essential to the survival and effectiveness of the Republican party and this nation, namely an abandonment of isolationism and the recognition that the United States should assume a positive position in world affairs both now and after the war is over."

Forest Blaze
Near Brevard

BREVARD, N. C., April 20.—(P)—A forest fire which started in mid-afternoon yesterday in the Big East Fork section of Pisgah National Forest was sweeping tonight along a 15-mile front in the federal timber and game preserve.

Winds began rising at noon and the velocity steadily increased throughout the day, playing havoc with efforts of hundreds of fighters to keep the flames within a blocked and raked area.

More than 250 men were reported fighting the blazes tonight, including crews from the Brevard Paper Corporation at Enka, Carr Lumber Company at Pisgah Forest, Brevard College and scores of WPA workers.

A number of operators of business establishments in Brevard raised volunteer crews from the streets and hauled them to the scene of the fire, approximately 12 miles from here.

German Assaults On Northern Fleet Repulsed, Reds Say

LONDON, April 20.—The Russian army of the center was reported tonight to have drawn its big guns up to within range of Smolensk, center of German military power about 230 miles west of Moscow, while the northern Russian forces were violently assaulting the main German and Finnish lines about Leningrad.

General Gregory Zhukov's Russian troops were reported advancing on Smolensk from a position 18 miles to the northeast.

Dispatches from the Russian front said the attacks in the north, apparently a supreme effort to relieve the second city of the Soviet Union before the spring thaw begins, were being fought along the Volkhov river south of Leningrad and against the Finnish lines on the Svir river and on the Karelian isthmus.

The Germans, said unofficial advice received here, were hurling every ounce of their strength into the struggle in an effort to hold on at any cost until the ice in the Volkhov melts and it becomes again a strong and fluid barrier to protect the German flank and rear.

Fleet Repels Attack.
The Moscow radio said tonight the Germans have launched heavy attacks against units of the northern fleet, but have been repulsed with destruction of 15 Nazi planes.

Many additional German planes were damaged, while the defending Russian fighters suffered no losses, the radio said. (Location and time of the battle were not given.)

Soviet pilots and ground batteries destroyed 1,500 German planes in the six weeks ending April 14 to amass one of the biggest scores of the air war, the Moscow radio announced tonight.

The reported bag was remarkable in itself, but all the more so because 1,000 of the Nazi craft were declared knocked out during March alone, when blizzards caused some of the worst flying weather encountered by Red airmen.

The Nazi high command acknowledged "local enemy attacks" in both the northern and central sectors but claimed that all had been broken and that German counterattacks in the north had been locally successful.

Berlin Admits Defense.
On the Svir front, northeast of Leningrad and east of Lake Ladoga, the Russians claimed an advance of two miles at one point, while Berlin itself acknowledged that Axis forces were fighting "defensive battles" there.

Russian war front dispatches said Red army units on the Leningrad front captured 17 strongholds in administering a shattering defeat to the 21st German division.

Word that Russian long-range guns now commanded Smolensk, which is only about 50 miles short of the White Russian frontier, supported many recent indications that the German outpost soon would be put under a powerful and decisive general assault, frontally and by envelopment.

Labor Priorities To Put Needed
Men in Vital Jobs, McNutt Says

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(P)—Chairman Paul V. McNutt, of the War Manpower Commission, said today he would create a system of labor priorities designed to get needed men into the most important war industries, but declared he did not contemplate a work or fight method of forcing men into war production.

Charged with responsibility for allocating manpower and womanpower among factories, farms and the armed forces, McNutt estimated 13,000,000 new recruits would be needed in war plants this year, and said that "we may be confronted with an overall nationwide labor shortage" in the likely event of a long war.

McNutt told a press conference he favored a program of "group" deferments from selective service induction, although acknowledging that such a program might conflict with present selective service procedure, and would require legislation to effect.

Such group deferments, excusing men of certain skill qualifications from military duty, would be upon not only an occupational group basis but also upon a regional basis, McNutt said, in order to take care of local shortages of trained labor. No specific legislation is now in his mind, the manpower chief added.

A questioner asked whether McNutt planned to use Army service as a "lever" to get men into essential industries. McNutt said he didn't like the "work or fight" expression, and added he did not intend to exercise such compulsion.

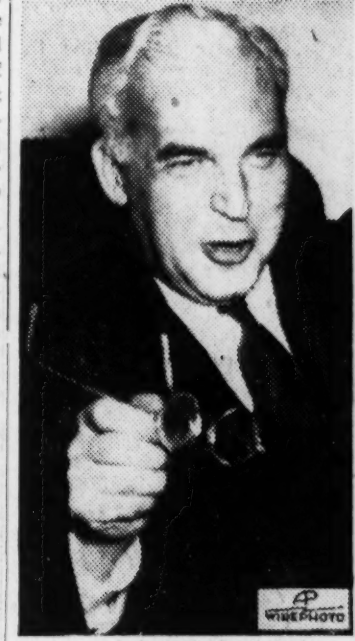

"I would not be in favor of a labor draft," he said. "Our program will have to be on a voluntary basis—I hope it will be kept on a voluntary basis."

Avoiding the use of the phrase "job freezing," used by another questioner, McNutt said an effort would be made to use the skills of men and women where they would be most productive, but did not indicate what specific steps would be taken to prevent workers from leaving one essential industry to get higher wages in another.

The government will ask women to register voluntarily for war work, he said, "we could ask them to come in, enroll, and offer their services," McNutt added. "Many women are already on the rolls of the U. S. Employment Service."

McNutt said he did not know why labor representation had not been accorded a place on the nine-member manpower commission. It was understood high union officials had requested a place on the board, which is advisory to McNutt.

"I have asked them (labor organizations) to set up a committee to advise me," McNutt said. "I will be glad to consult with them at any time." However, he made it clear that labor would have no direct voice in policy-making.

U. S. Sub Attacks, Torpedoes Jap Undersea Boat

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—The Navy reported today that an American submarine operating in the Western Pacific had made a surprise attack on a Japanese submarine and had damaged it with torpedo fire.

40 Jap Planes Destroyed in Rabaul Raids

MacArthur, Curtin Discuss 'Highly Confidential' Allied Operations

UNITED STATES ARMY HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, April 20.—(AP)—Destruction of 40 grounded Japanese planes in two weekend raids on Rabaul was reported today as General Douglas MacArthur and Prime Minister John Curtin discussed operations of the southwest Pacific command.

The conference which other Allied war chiefs attended was described officially only as dealing with a "highly confidential" subject. The American general, new command is under instructions to prepare an offensive, and the increasing air attacks on the Japanese footholds on the outer ring of islands possibly presages an early effort to drive the invaders from those bases.

In the attacks Saturday and Sunday on Rabaul, in New Britain, thousands of pounds of explosives were dropped on Lakunai airfield, wrecking runways and planes, and on Japanese flying boats in the harbor.

A ship also was reported damaged. The United States and Australian airmen drove through tropical rainstorms and heavy anti-aircraft fire to accomplish their mission.

Australian Air Minister Arthur S. Drakeford declared he had "cheering news" that numbers of the latest American aircraft will be added to the powers of attack.

Reports seeping through from Rabaul said that the Japanese were suffering acutely from hunger because their supply ships had been sunk and that Australian captives were in good spirits despite forced labor on the wharves.

The American submarine was commanded by Lieutenant Commander Elton W. Grenfell, 38, Radburn, N. J., who was one of four undersea craft commanders awarded Navy crosses today.

The Navy's brief account of the action said that Grenfell's submarine was patrolling in enemy waters when a 5,000-ton vessel was sighted and was torpedoed and sunk.

Some time afterward Grenfell began the journey from enemy waters back to his base when he received information that Japanese submarines were nearby.

"He ordered a change of course to intercept them and not long after took his boat up to periscope depth," the Navy related. "Underway on the surface dead ahead was a Japanese submarine, its lookouts unaware of our submarine's approach. Three torpedoes were fired and the enemy submarine was damaged."

No other information of the action was given.

Grenfell and the three other officers decorated today, the Navy said, command submarines which have sunk six enemy vessels totaling 45,000 tons. All these vessels were destroyed by the submarine which was attacked by Grenfell were destroyed in Japanese waters and in all instances the attacks against the surface ships were driven home in the face of intensive air and enemy surface patrols.

Only one American submarine was slightly damaged. The Navy said, in addition to Grenfell, were Lieutenant Commanders David C. White, 38, of San Diego, Cal.; Lewis S. Parks, 40, of Wilmington, Del.; and Stanley P. Moseley, 38, of Fort Worth, Texas.

All the surface ship sinkings were previously reported individually by the Navy, but no details were given.

Parks won his Navy Cross for destroying a 17,000-ton enemy vessel while undergoing severe bombing and depth charge attacks that partially disabled his submarine, although he and his crew escaped with their ship and none was injured.

Parks sighted the enemy vessel and was maneuvering into position to fire his torpedoes when his submarine was discovered by Japanese planes and surface craft. The enemy attacked with bombs and depth charges, but Parks determinedly worked his submarine into position for the attack and opened fire, sinking his quarry before he attempted to withdraw to safer waters.

Moseley made six attacks on enemy ships, the Navy said, and sank three that totaled about 16,000 tons. He returned from patrol without damage to the sub or injury to personnel.

Lieutenant Commander White torpedoed and sank a Japanese ship of 7,000 tons. Twenty-four depth charges were dropped around and near his vessel, but he managed to carry out his mission safely.

57 Retail Beer Permits Revoked

Warned to "clean up or close up," 210 Georgia beer retailers are back on the side of law and order, Judge John S. Wood, state director of the Georgia Committee of the Brewing Industry Foundation, said yesterday.

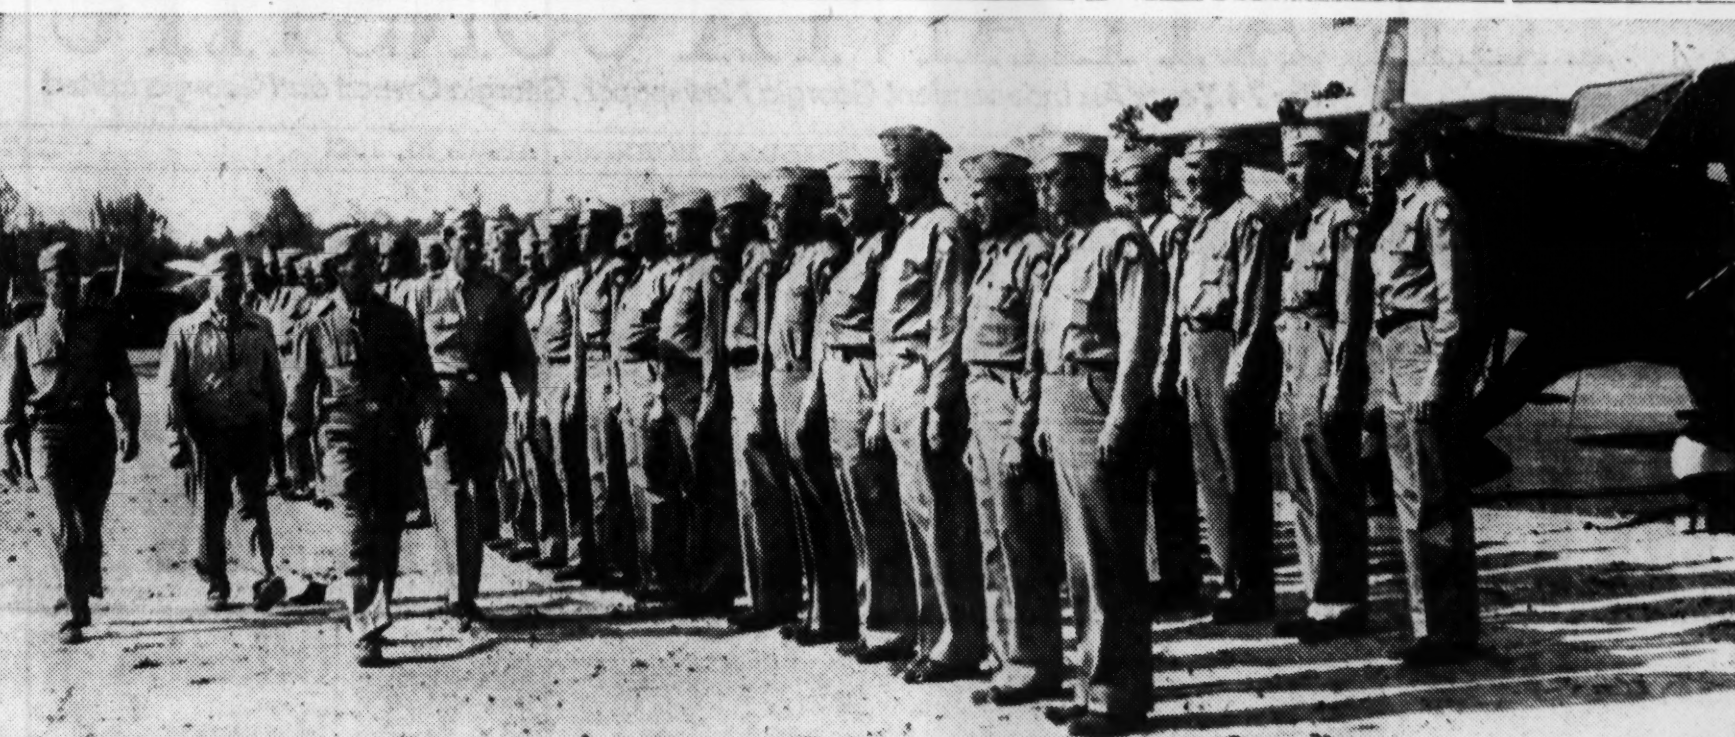

Fifty-seven retail permits have been revoked in a check of 303 retail places, Judge Wood said. One license has been suspended, several licensees have been on probation and five retailers have surrendered their licenses after receiving warning letters from the state director.

Judge Wood said the committee particularly was gratified over the support the program has received from retailers operating in Army camp areas in Georgia.

Atlanta's CAP Unit Practices Group Flying

'Flour Bombs' Dropped in Preparation for Emergency.

Atlanta's squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, snappily dressed in new summer uniforms, was busy practicing bombing and formation flying last weekend in line with the recently announced plans to prepare civilian fliers for any emergency.

The squadron, under Wing Commander Winship Nunnally and Major Lion Mason, who is head of the north Georgia area, has been active in delivering messages, carrying parts and personnel for the Army and Navy and other assignments.

Now it is getting down to the offensive side of war—dropping practice bombs of paper and flour to test the pilots.

The practice maneuvers, which include secret missions to various cities as tests for navigators and observers, will continue until the pilots are capable of facing any emergency. Wing Commander Nunnally said.

The Marietta airport where the maneuvers were held was not open to the public.

Water Supply's Protection Is Studied Here

Steps To Be Taken in Any Emergency Are Discussed.

With the fact that Singapore and Hong Kong fell mainly because of inadequate water supplies and their inadequate protection in mind, more than 75 members of the Southeastern section of the American Water Works Association met here yesterday to study ways to insure pure water in case of any emergency.

The delegates were told the best means to protect water works from sabotage, the proper use of chemicals during wartime, and how to secure materials essential to maintaining water works.

F. R. Hammack, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, spoke on "Municipal and Industrial Water Supply Protection." Dr. Hugh A. Wyckoff, professor of bacteriology at Tech, discussed "Bacteriological Control of Water Supplies Under War Conditions" and Dr. Harold B. Friedman, chemistry professor at Tech, explained "Chemical Control of Water Supplies Under War Conditions."

W. H. Weir, assistant state sanitary engineer and member of the Georgia Civilian Defense Public Utilities Committee, outlined "Georgia's Water Works Emergency Mutual Aid Plan." Harry E. Jordan, secretary of the American Water Works Association, spoke on "Procurement of Essential Water Works Materials."

B. P. Rice, secretary of the Southeastern section, presided at a war emergency round table.

M. G. Stewart, chairman, called the conference to order.

Train Derailed Near Blakely

BLAKELY, Ga., April 20.—(AP) A mixed passenger and freight train, derailed near here this morning, left a mass of twisted steel and rails for a half a mile although no injuries were reported.

The wreck occurred at Smith's Crossing on the old Columbus road, eight miles from Blakely. Nine freight cars were derailed but no passenger cars left the track.

Although the cause of the wreck was unknown, it was thought that one of the cars jumped the track.

Helen Rough, Ex-Air Racer, Calls on Georgia's Civil Patrol

Pioneer Woman Speedster En Route to Office in Washington.

Mrs. Rough—her husband is Howard F. Rough, of the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington—hasn't been doing any racing since she was married. In fact, she has been in the applications office of the Civil Air Patrol since the civilian pilots' organization was formed.

"This is the first time I've had a chance to fly my plane in a long time," Mrs. Rough said. "We've been so busy accepting applications and planning the pilots' training that I just couldn't get out of the office. This trip to New Orleans was better than an ordinary vacation. I got to fly my plane again."

Mrs. Rough is eager to get into the flying part of the CAP on patrol duty and missions etc., for the armed forces. She isn't used to staying in an office after 1,400 hours of flying since she took to the air in 1929 when she was 20.

She made her living out of racing flying for several years, and came through Atlanta in 1930 on a transcontinental flight in which she placed fourth. She won many 500-mile races.

She said she looks forward to the day when her son, Bill, two and a half years old, wins his wings. The boy has been flying with his parents since he was four months old.

Mrs. Rough conferred with CAP officials including Wing Commander Winship Nunnally, head of the state's organization.

Forced Saving Seen If Sale Of Bonds Lags

Treasury Aide Urges All Wage Earners To Participate.

Unless the American people invest a substantial portion of their current earnings in war bonds, it may be necessary for the government to employ a withholding tax, according to Robert W. Fowler, representative of the Treasury Department, here to confer with Atlanta officers of the National Association of Life Underwriters about the payroll plan of buying bonds.

"It's the people's war," he said, "and they must finance it. The money must come either from loans or taxes."

Fowler will address life insurance men on war bond promotion at 12:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Rich's tea room.

The underwriters' association, with its 17,000 members throughout the country, has been co-operating with Treasury officials in pushing the payroll plan, by which workers permit their employers to purchase war bonds for them out of weekly pay checks.

Fowler gave three reasons why everybody should invest in the bonds. First, the war must be paid for. Second, serious inflation may result unless some of the billions being spent are not sluiced back into the Treasury through war bonds.

If the smaller bonds are bought at the rate of a billion dollars per month, and four or five billions per year in the larger denominations, this danger can be averted, he said. The third reason was that the savings will constitute a cushion during post-war unemployment.

Employers having more than a 90 per cent participation in the payroll plan are entitled to a certificate and one of the Treasury's honor flags.

C. Arthur Cheatham, deputy administrator of the Georgia War Bonds staff, told Fowler that 475 Georgia firms, representing 193,000 people, have already agreed to accept the payroll plan.

March Figures Show Fuel Tax Slump Halted

The downward trend of gasoline tax collections, principal source of the state's revenue, was reversed yesterday for the first time since wartime rationing of gas, tires and cars.

The March yield of the six-cent levy, reported yesterday, was $1,893,210. Some returns have yet to be compiled, and Wayne Walker, director of the motor fuel division, predicted these would lift the final total to at least $2,050,000.

In March a year ago collections amounted to $2,189,289, while receipts for February of this year were $1,818,557.

Making allowance for the fact that February was three days shorter than March, Walker said the figures showed a slight increase in the consumption of gasoline last month compared with the previous month.

The tax raised $2,133,804 in January.

Heavy Guns Pound Corregidor, Inflict 'Some Casualties'

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—Corregidor was bombarded heavily today by Japanese guns of 240 millimeter caliber (about nine-inch), the War Department said, reporting that "some casualties and some damage resulted."

Turner, Pals Are Captured Near Collins

Two Seized in Vacant House Waiting for 3d To Bring Food.

Forrest Turner, elusive Georgia prison escape artist, surrendered meekly in a vacant house in the "Piney Woods" four miles from Collins, Ga., early yesterday—bringing to a close his latest A. W. O. L. from prison after only two days of freedom.

The will-o'-the-wisp bandit, 60, under sentence of hanging from 60 to 80 years, was captured, along with Harry Smith, another convict serving a misdemeanor sentence from Rockdale county, as they were waiting for another escaped prisoner to bring them food, Warden R. H. Lawrence, of the state prison, said.

Guy Ezell, third member of the escaped trio, was captured in a country store near Collins where he had gone to get food, the warden reported.

Residents Relieved. Surrender of Turner and his pals, who fled from a work crew on the Collins-Metter highway Saturday, brought a feeling of relief to residents of Tattall and adjoining counties.

When taken into custody, the slender blue-eyed Turner had a buckshot wound in his right shoulder, Warden Lawrence said. He was shot by a guard Saturday when he and his companions fled the work crew in a truck.

The three men had robbed a Collins store for clothes shortly before their capture, the warden stated. After obtaining the clothes they left Collins and were headed toward Metter. They stopped at the vacant house, and Ezell went for food.

Guards Nab Ezell. Ezell was "nabbed" by guards who had been notified of the Collins robbery.

Warden Lawrence said Chris Anglin, under a 20-year sentence for robbery from Tattall county, who originally was reported with Turner, was not with him. Anglin and another convict, listed as Hubert Dickerson, serving a sentence for burglary in Baldwin county, also escaped, fleeing into the woods and not on the truck with Turner.

Turner's last escape was from a Hamilton, Ga., work crew last fall. He made a daring daylight get-away and, along with two fellow prisoners, freed 43 members of the work crew. They were captured later in Colquitt county.

Injunctions Asked by U.S. In Steel Row

Justice Department Files Suits To Force Compliance With WPB.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP) The government sought injunctions today against two large steel corporations accused of violating priority regulations of the War Production Board.

Justice Department attorneys filed suits in federal district courts at Wilmington, Del., against Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation and at Pittsburgh against Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation asking that they be forced to comply "with all provisions of WPB regulations and orders."

An official said the department would seek to expedite the cases. Both companies have denied the charges.

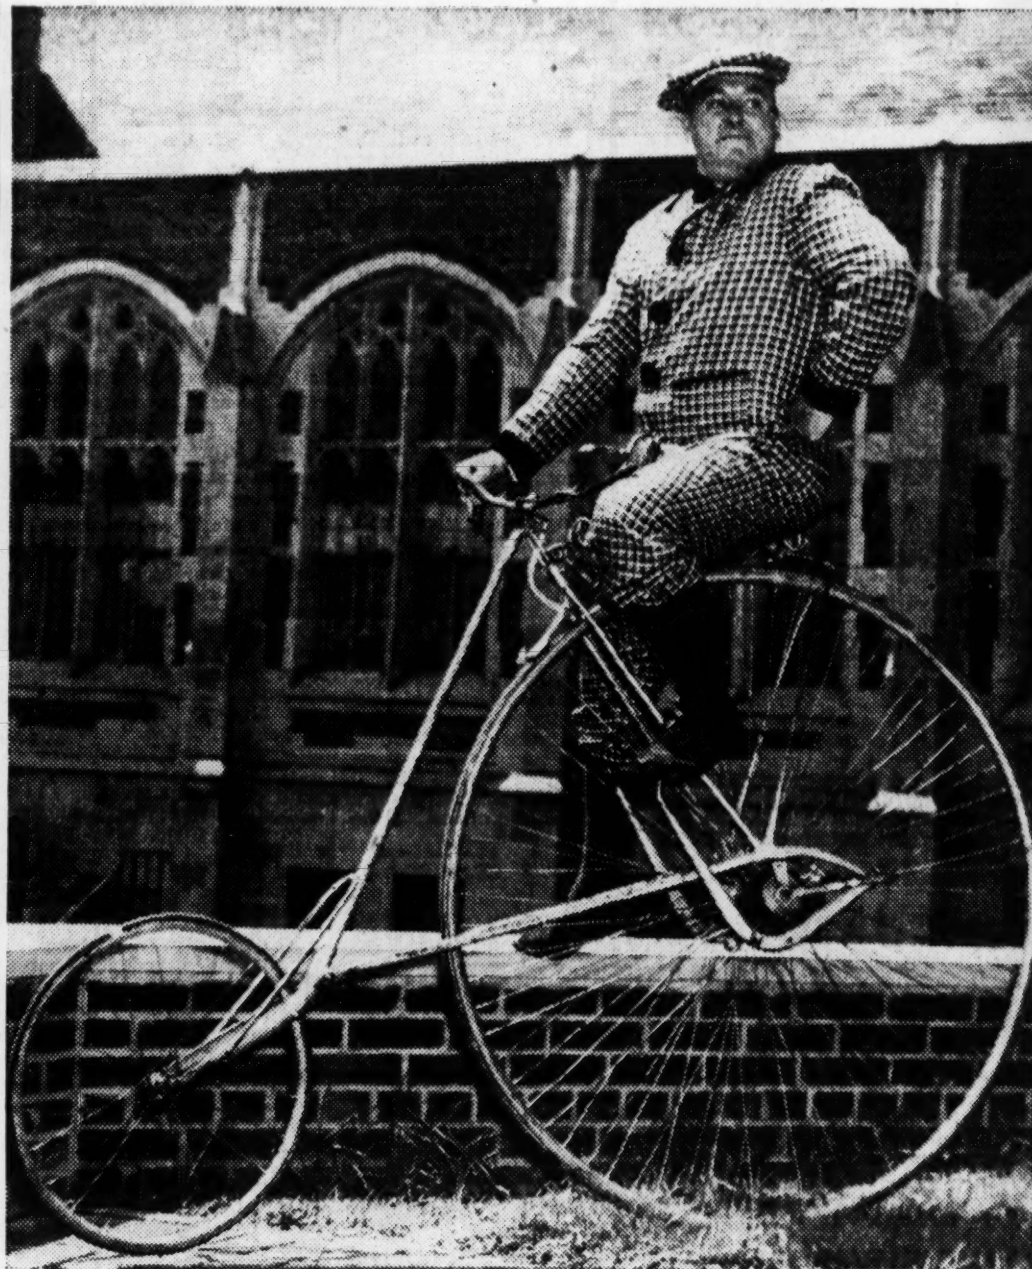

The complaint said that unless injunctions were granted, other producers of steel would "consider themselves to be compelled by economic necessity to refuse to comply" with WPB rules.

"The government of the United States and the War Production Board will be unable to conserve the supply and direct a distribution of such metals and metal products in the public interest and to promote the defense of the United States," the complaint added.

The actions, against corporations controlling more than one-third of the nation's total steel production, were the first to be brought under WPB's priority program.

The drastic step was taken by Attorney General Biddle upon recommendation of WPB General Counsel John Lord O'Brian. Both suits charged that since May 31, 1941, and since establishment of the allotment system, the two companies "continued to fail and declined to observe WPB regulations for handling orders."

Specific charges included delay in deliveries of orders carrying high priority ratings in favor of orders bearing low preference or no priority rating at all; failure to utilize maximum production facilities for high preference orders, and allocating "in an arbitrary manner, without regard to the necessity of over-all compliance," orders and supplies of materials.

RIDING CIRCUIT ON TWO-WHEEL, JITNEY—Lacking only a handlebar mustache and black cigar, but outfitted in the latest 19th century sports dress, the Rev. Harold C. Smith mounts this reckless contraption for a tour of his circuit. He will ride this bike in one of the scenes recalling important historical events in Atlanta church history to be dramatized in a pageant to be presented at 8 o'clock tonight by the Atlanta Presbytery. The occasion will commemorate the 75th anniversary of the Presbytery here. The pageant will be staged in Presser Hall on the Agnes Scott campus.

Goat Record Shakes—Nanny Bears 5
WHITMAN, Mass., April 20.—(AP)—Kay Cunadell gave birth to quintuplets today and a short time later her five offspring were galloping all over the place... no kidding!
John Kay and his sister, Marie Kay, who are goat experts and own Kay Cunadell, said that so far as they knew this was the first time in American history that five kids were born at one time to one nanny goat. The Kays said that the normal number of kids born to a mother goat did not exceed two or three.
The kids are between 15 and 20 inches tall and are endowed with the friskiness normal to their kind. Their daddy is Kay Conquer.

Reynolds, a native of Athens, Ga., is a graduate of the University of Georgia.

He was made adjutant at Fort McPherson several weeks ago.

Tyler is in the public relations division and Hagerstrand is personnel adjutant.

Atlantan Is Back From Rangoon

A 40-year-old Atlantan, who directed the assembling and personally tested each of the 100 P-40's used by the American Volunteer Group, is back in town after a long, adventurous journey from Rangoon, which began February 10.

Byron A. Glover, former Tech student who resided at 359 Hill street, joined the Air Corps in 1923 and later became a test pilot.

Glover said his "greatest thrill" or "worst experience" was being caught in Rangoon during incessant Japanese raids which shook the plaster from the ceiling of his apartment. Another close call came when he was testing a plane while Japanese actually were bombing the field from which he had taken off.

Glover called U. S. warplanes "far superior" to the Japs'. He

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 21, 1942.

Welcome to Opera

Tonight, at the city auditorium, Atlanta's 1942 season of Metropolitan Opera begins. The program is "Carmen," with Djanel in the title role and the distinguished English conductor, Sir Thomas Beecham, handling the baton.

Tomorrow night will bring "The Barber of Seville" and Thursday night will close the season with the popular Lily Pons in "The Daughter of the Regiment."

No man can foretell, today, whether there will be an opera season in Atlanta one year from now. As is true of every activity of normal times, its continuance is at the mercy of the war and the necessities thereby imposed.

However, whether or not we can enjoy the glories of supreme opera in 1943, we can, this week, bathe our spirits in the music, the color and the art of three works which could not have been bettered for selection. "Carmen" is one of the most popular and this year it is said to be presented in a new and strikingly appealing manner. The other two are light and carefree works, just what we need in these days of war and its worries.

Go to the opera, at least once this week, if you possibly can. It will do you good and restore your faith that the right and the normal ways of life must, eventually, triumph over the abnormal horrors that Hitlerism and his Axis partners, the Japs, have turned loose upon the world.

Strategic Malta

The British island fortress of Malta straddles the Axis supply line across the Mediterranean sea to north Africa. It stands only sixty miles from Sicily, just off the Italian "boot," and a little over two hundred miles from Tripoli, the main Axis base in Africa.

To say that Malta is a thorn in the Axis flesh would be temporizing with the facts. It has been bombed some two thousand times—and is being bombed every day—which speaks eloquently enough for its effectiveness against the Germans and Italians. It is said to have cost the Axis over sixty per cent of all supplies, troops, machines and guns sent to Rommel's army in Libya, to say nothing of the hundreds of planes brought down in the futile attempt to batter it into uselessness.

Without doubt, it is one of the war's best defended strategic positions, as well as the most bombed spot in the world. Bombers and fighter planes find a safe hiding place in hangars dug in limestone hills, and take off from fields smoothed out of the same material. Submarines glide in and out of Valletta, the chief port, where docks are maintained to accommodate warships up to cruiser size. Its shores bristle with big guns from end to end and the sea is planted all around with electric mines. The heaviest concentration of anti-aircraft fire in the world is centered there.

The island's quarter of a million people take to the rocky excavations provided for their protection with considerable nonchalance after two thousand raids, but the attacks grow heavier and more intense each day. Recently, the chief German air-blitzkrieger, Marshal Kesselring, who directed the destruction of Coventry and Warsaw, arrived in Sicily to take care of Malta; but the Axis continues to get the worst of it. In one raid twenty-two planes were brought down on the island and fifty more were unable to get back to the base in Sicily.

The importance of Malta to the Allied cause stands almost second to none. It lies half-way between the great British bases of Alexandria and Gibraltar—two thousand miles apart. Its fall would be calamitous; but this is unlikely, for the British can scarcely be accused of "lack of foresight" in this particular instance, as the Axis may well testify.

Let Us Give Thanks

All Atlanta should give reverent thanks to God today that the fire at Maddox Junior High school occurred on Sunday evening, when there were no children in the wooden fire trap buildings. Had that blaze come while school was in session there would have been many homes weeping, today, for the bright young lives that had been smothered out under the smoke and flame.

The wooden buildings at Maddox Junior High have, for years, been a shame and a disgrace to Atlanta. That they constituted a potential fire trap everyone who had seen them, knew. The way they burned on Sunday provided final, conclusive evidence that the lives of all the students have been in peril every moment they have occupied the building.

The same situation still prevails at Murphy Junior High.

Whether or not the city, even if it provides the funds, can secure necessary building material to construct a permanent, safe school for the pupils of Maddox High, or another to replace the wooden shacks at Murphy High, is extremely doubtful under war-time priority regulations.

Efforts have been made, in the past, to secure funds to replace these two fire traps but always the bond issues required have been defeated by lack of sufficient voters to approve them.

Now, when a disastrous fire, which was not a holocaust only by the grace of Providence, drives the lesson home, it may be too late to do anything about it.

Never was the necessity of universal exercise of the ballot driven home more dramatically. The responsibility for the continuance in use of these ancient wooden school buildings must be shared by the city fathers who have failed to provide funds, year after year, and the negligent citizens who did not vote to ratify proposed bond issues to raise the money.

Doctors Must Be Provided

From every rural community, from every country district, from the cities, even, come reports of a distressing shortage of doctors, as a result of the war.

Of course, it is not reasonable to expect physicians to be created overnight, to fill the need, any more than horses can be manufactured in factory double shifts to pull non-existent buggies that seem so likely to be in demand within the year; but it is certainly reasonable to hope, as in the case of horses and buggies, the people of the nation will be given the services of those competent doctors who are already in their midst and ready to go to work.

Some 6,000 foreign physicians—refugees from the iron heel of European conquest—have found haven in the United States. Only 3,500, however, have been licensed to practice. While a handful of these have been enabled to carry on their special research work in American universities, most of them have become general practitioners in hard-pressed country districts previously without the adequate service of a doctor. Thus about 2,500 continue idle so far as their special usefulness is concerned, or waste their medical skill operating elevators or in the role of male nurses.

Some communities are so badly in need of a physician they will pay the expenses of a refugee to settle there and take up practice; but the hitch lies in the fact that thirty-nine states decline, outright, to license foreign-born or foreign-trained doctors. On top of this, the National Board of Medical Examiners, which practically guides the reins in forty-three states, has ruled it will qualify only graduates of United States schools; all of which is probably to be commended in normal times. But haven't the gentlemen heard that the whole world is at war?

It is not proposed that the bars be let down to permit every grave-looking individual with a satchel come into the field of American medicine; far from it. But to refuse licenses to qualified men because of the fear of foreign competition, which is one of the excuses given, is a bit too ingenious.

The surgeon general of the United States, Dr. Thomas Parran, expresses his opinion in the matter in brief, but forceful words: "We should give all doctors who are qualified an opportunity to help meet the growing shortage of medical personnel." The growing shortage—not merely the existing shortage, it should be noted.

Georgia Editors Say: STATE'S EXPENSES INCREASED OVER MILLION

(From The Meriwether Vindicator).

During the present administration the state's expenses have increased over a million dollars. While 113 have been cut off the pay roll, expenses have mounted higher.

These facts are shown by report of the state auditor.

What are we going to do about it? We were promised an economical administration and want to see it.

Traveling expenses have mounted to over all previous figures.

The remedy is to cut.

This will be an issue in the next gubernatorial campaign.

The fight will be lively, in spite of the war. It will open up pretty soon.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

THEIR FIRST TASTE WASHINGTON, April 20.—After four months of swashbuckling warfare in the Pacific and years of wanton bombing of defenseless Chinese cities, the tricky little Japs have at last had the war brought to their own shores. They have been given the first taste of what we intend to exact for the treachery of Pearl Harbor.

Heretofore the war in the Pacific has been all one way. The Japs have gained every objective they have applied themselves to. Henceforth, if all the signs mean anything, we will be on the march.

The bombing of Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and other Japanese cities is looked on in informed quarters here as the opening blow in a series of aggressive actions to be struck by American forces along a far-flung front. Others will follow immediately. Secretary of War Stimson said last week that the hour has arrived. Up to now we have been busy repairing the damage of Pearl Harbor, getting our forces ready.

The naval communiques, in due time, will tell of the havoc wrought by our bombers on Tokyo and the other Japanese cities. Until then we will have to surmise. Panicky reports from Tokyo indicate that the mission was entirely successful. We certainly destroyed far more than the schoolhouses, hospitals and cultural centers which they admitted.

It is funny the way the Axis communiques always dwell on these items in giving the damage of an Allied air raid. Some juvenile concept of propaganda leads them to admit destruction of only schools and hospitals. The Germans are the most notorious offenders. We may be sure that the Tokyo raid was no haphazard affair. The Navy must have put everything it had behind it. They were determined to make it successful—in retaliation for the blow naval pride suffered at Hawaii. The fact that the Japanese cities were caught coldly unawares in the middle of the day attests to the success of the enterprise.

HOW MANY PLANES? The Japs claim to have shot down nine of our attacking planes. On this basis, there must have been approximately 100 American aircraft taking part in the raids, since a loss of 10 per cent is the average on such missions.

If there were 100 American bombers in the expedition, the damage must have been far greater than anything Tokyo has admitted. That is enough to cause a conflagration in the straw-and-bamboo-built houses of Japan.

We will get the full story in time. If the raiding planes were carrier-based, it may be some days yet. You don't send wireless reports from naval vessels for public release for two reasons. One is that through triangulation the enemy is able to locate the position of the ship. The other is dispatching of a message in code for later publication would enable the enemy to break down the code for future use. We usually wait until the ships reach port, refuel, and take to sea again before issuing communiques on what they have accomplished. It is the safest way.

THEY DESERVE IT There is no need for the American people to be taken in by the whiney shouts of indignation welling up from Japan over the bombing of her principal cities. With pagan ruthlessness, they have been doing the same thing to unprotected cities of China for these past four years. They bombed Honolulu, Manila, Batavia, Singapore and Darwin. Rapings and mass murders they have committed in Hong-kong and Nanking constitute unbelievable horrors.

Ample justification exists for wiping out her seats of proclaimed civilization completely.

Last week's raid was only a preview of what is to come. With the 185,000 planes the President has set as our war goal, we, in time, should be able to carry the conflict to every important German and Japanese city. It will keep up with a steady tempo from now on.

MAY RETALIATE One thing seems reasonably certain. As a result of the indignation aroused in Japan over the bombings, we may expect a determined effort to retaliate against our west coast cities. Some of the false alarms of the past at Los Angeles and San Francisco may give way to realities of the future. The Japs will do everything possible to bring carriers within striking range of the coast. If we happen to intercept them, it will be all to Tokyo's credit. If they get through, the California area must be prepared for the worst.

Come what may, the Navy is hardly likely to be caught napping again.

DOUBLE WRIST LOCK RELEASE—Land drill takes more than half the time of water safety courses. In the pictures above Miss Alice Cheesman, of 1098 Spring street, who also is pictured on page one, and Miss Blanche Albert, assistant director of first aid, water safety and accident prevention, demonstrate a few pointers in the lifeguard course. This double wrist lock release is a life-saving method.

CROSS CHEST CARRY—This cross chest method is used for carrying a victim to safety and is the most secure method known to life saving. This is one of the first things students in the Red Cross course, which began at the Georgia Tech swimming pool last night, will learn. Here the girls get in a bit of extra practice at Piedmont park before reporting for night classes.

PRACTICE SCISSORS KICK—Miss Cheesman, left, and Miss Albert demonstrate in this picture the scissors kick which is used for the side stroke and is also an important life-saving method. First they learn this stroke on the land and later they climb into a pool where they practice while holding to the rail. Later a student uses it in many valuable swimming activities. It's good for reducing, too.

Spy Arrested In Rio Guided German Raider

Radio Operator Directed Graf Spee Once Too Often

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 20.—(P)—A German master spy was arrested today and identified as the operator of a radio aboard a harbored German freighter which directed the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee to the kill of British ships leaving Brazilian ports before the Nazi raider herself was sunk in December, 1939.

The prize catch among 36 Germans rounded up today in the state of Rio Grande do Sul was Kurt Fraeb, a German officer in the last war and, according to police, the director of espionage in the southern port of Rio Grande since 1938. He was connected with one of the most prominent German firms in Brazil.

Police said he used the radio of the German freighter Montevideo in Rio Grande harbor to advise the Graf Spee when British ships were departing.

(Although the Brazilian police did not say so, this espionage obviously backfired and led to the final destruction of the raider.

(Some of the facts are still obscure, but it was assumed that the Graf Spee was lured into the fateful battle by interception of messages directed to the raider.)

Besides Fraeb, those arrested were his seven assistants and 28 crewmen of the Montevideo, which has been seized by Brazil. All were sent to Porto Allegre for transfer to a concentration camp.

Don't Ride That Bus, It's Afire, Boy Tells Sister and Saves 30

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 20.—(P)—A nonchalant Negro boy, who did not want his sister to ride the bus because "it's on fire" was credited with saving 30 occupants of a southbound Greyhound super coach from threatening disaster today when the big vehicle burned 12 miles north of Vicksburg.

The bus was wrecked by the fire, which was attributed by the driver, E. A. O'Brien, to a gasoline line, but all the passengers and luggage were removed without injury.

O'Brien said he was unaware of the blaze until he stopped to pick up the Negro girl passenger. Her smaller brother who came to see her off, pulled at her dress as she stepped into the coach, and in a matter-of-fact voice told her: "You don't want to ride that bus. It's burning up."

Startled, O'Brien said he looked back to see the flames that had already penetrated the rear of the interior. When he opened the emergency exit, he could see that the flames had gained considerable headway. Motion of the bus had made the flames invisible from the interior of the bus, O'Brien said.

Bombing Now Viewed Likely On East Coast

Defense Head Sees Act as Reprisal Measure by Jap Ally.

BALTIMORE, April 20.—(P)—The chief of staff for the Third Civilian Defense Region, said today it was "altogether likely" the east coast of the United States would be bombed by an ally of Japan in reprisal for "the bombing of Tokyo and other Japanese cities."

Colonel Augustine S. Janeway, director of civilian defense chiefs in Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, urged the area be alerted against the possibility of enemy air attacks.

"With the news of the bombing of Tokyo and other Japanese cities," he wrote, "we believe the people of the east coast region of America should be more aware than ever of the possibility of the enemy bombing us, too."

"It is altogether likely that Japan's ally will attempt to repay the blow."

Colonel Janeway said the possibility of an immediate raid along the eastern seaboard led Colonel Vincent A. Carroll, commander of the Philadelphia area, to order a 36-hour alert at 6 p. m. last Saturday.

Colonel Carroll, he said, "believing they might strike back immediately, put the Philadelphia control centers in continuous operation over the weekend and called out all members of the United States Citizens' Defense Corps, amounting to approximately 50,000, for continued duty in six-hour shifts during that period."

Colonel Janeway added that Colonel Carroll knew it was a "favorite trick of the Axis to strike on a holiday or Sunday, when we least expect it."

Welfare Body Pays Honor to Two Educators

Mrs. Roosevelt Presents Medals at Nashville Conference.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 20.—(P)—Two southern educators—a white man and a Negro woman—shared the Southern Conference for Human Welfare's Thomas Jefferson award for the southerner who contributed the most "outstanding service to the south" in 1941.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt presented duplicate medals to Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina and member of the War Labor Board, and Mary McLeod Bethune, president of Bethune-Cookman College of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Dr. Graham's citation said he had "fought for freedom and democracy for all the people of the south with devotion and courage. Particularly he has his services on the War Labor Board been a contribution to the human welfare of the country."

Of Mary Bethune, who also is director of the Negro affairs division of the National Youth Administration, the conference said she has "fought for freedom and democracy for all of the people in the south with devotion and courage, particularly in her services in developing our youth for greater service to their country."

Previous recipients of the award have been Associate Justice Hugo L. Black of the United States supreme court, and Dr. William Alexander, former administrator of the Farm Security Administration and now an official of the War Production Board.

10 New Training Bases for Southeast Provided in Naval Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(P)—Legislation to authorize an $800,000,000 expansion in Naval shore facilities was passed today by the house and returned to the senate.

Chairman Vinson, Democrat, of the Naval Committee, told the house that the following items made up about half of the measure:

Liquid fuel storage, $22,043,250—installations for fuel and Diesel oil in the northern New England area, the San Francisco bay area and in southern California. In addition, the Navy Department contemplated aviation gasoline storage in the northeast Atlantic, the middle Atlantic, the central California and Hawaiian areas.

Aviation facilities, $130,300,000—new aviation mechanic trade schools are contemplated in Tennessee and Oklahoma. New aircraft gunnery schools are planned in the Pacific northwest and the southeast. In southern California, two new Marine Corps air stations are planned, while three Marine Corps glider training stations are contemplated for the central eastern states. Plans are being made for 10 operational training bases in the southeast area and five lighter-than-air bases for patrol duty outside continental United States.

Storage facilities, $85,000,000—in the northeast there will be a new inland supply depot, and three others will be placed on the west coast, about 500 miles inland in the Pacific northwest, the central western states and in the southwest.

Personnel training and housing, $60,000,000—two new major training stations are contemplated for the central California-Nevada area and the other on the east coast.

Ordnance facilities, $85,468,000—two new ammunition depots in the midcontinent area.

Hospital facilities, $3,710,000—a "new hospital activity" is contemplated in the gulf coast area.

Shore radio facilities, $7,381,000—new radio transmitting stations are contemplated in the Boston, Hawaiian and San Francisco bay areas.

Normandie Fire Laid to 'Gross Carelessness'

Naval Court of Inquiry Also Blames Two Officers.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(P)—A naval court of inquiry has found that "gross carelessness" by employees of a private company was responsible for the disastrous fire on the liner Normandie on February 9, the Navy Department announced today.

The blame was placed on employees of the Robins Drydock and Repair Company, of Brooklyn, N. Y., which was converting the former French liner into a troop transport named the U. S. Lafayette.

A coast guard officer and a naval officer also were mentioned as failing to take all proper precautions.

In addition, in a letter accompanying the court of inquiry report, the judge advocate of the Navy, Rear Admiral W. B. Woodson, expressed the view that while the Navy had made stipulations in a contract with the Robins company for the safe performance of work, the Navy "cannot delegate to any private person or corporation the responsibility for the safety of the vessel."

"It is clear," Woodson continued, "that the representatives of the commandant of the third naval district had a definite military mission to perform in connection with the safety of the vessel, and the responsibility in connection with that mission had no relation to the . . . contractual provisions, which were civil in nature."

"It is noted that the testimony of the commandant of the third naval district, who was called as a witness, consisted of a prepared statement. No searching inquiries by examination were made as to the details of the function of his office as they related to his duties in connection with the safety of the Lafayette."

Invitations have been extended to members of other organizations of accountants and credit men.

$724.38 Donated To Navy Drive

A check for $724.38 for the Navy relief campaign was presented yesterday to Mills B. Lane Jr., Georgia chairman in the drive, on behalf of personnel of the naval reserve aviation base.

Personnel at the station also contributed 100 per cent to the Red Cross in its recent campaign.

Grocers Warned To Check Sales

An urgent suggestion to grocers of Atlanta and Georgia, as well as six other southern states, to keep careful record of all food sales this week, as a basis for computing their sugar allotments in the registration April 28 and 29, was issued yesterday by Alex Harris, OPA regional rationing executive.

"This is extremely important and we want all grocers to know it," said Harris. "It will save much trouble and will help to assure each grocer that he receives his proper amount."

"Let me emphasize that the figure wanted is the total of sales for this current week."

Goering Helps Hitler Eat His Birthday Lunch

German Fuehrer Spends 53d Birthday at Eastern Headquarters.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), April 20.—(P)—Adolf Hitler spent his 53d birthday directing operations at his eastern front headquarters today and receiving the greetings of German children who broadcast their messages on a program in which the bells of Strasbourg cathedral in Alsace-Lorraine rang.

The children's broadcast was part of the ceremony of calling 1,000,000 boys and girls into the Hitler youth movement.

The only other observance at headquarters was a more elaborate luncheon than usual with Reich Marshal Hermann Goering, Air Field Marshal Erhard Milch and Colonel General Franz Halder, chief of the general staff.

Peach Sale Agreement To Be Discussed

Growers Meet in Macon Today To Study Marketing Plans.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MACON, Ga., April 20.—A program centering around organization of an industry committee to administer the newly approved quality and size control agreement has been arranged for Georgia peach growers gathering here Tuesday.

Growers nominated to serve on the committee will be introduced by W. C. Bewley, chairman of the growers group which drafted the agreement, and he will lead a general discussion of its various phases.

Speakers will include H. M. Riley, supervising inspector of the federal-state inspection service; Dr. J. H. Weinberger, associate United States pomologist; and James S. Peters, Manchester banker and peach grower. Dr. Weinberger's talk on thinning will be illustrated.

President Joe R. Gay, of the

'Bugs' Baer Says:

The government caught up to a couple of effervescent hoodlums last week. We can do without the subtle propagandists who are undermining us four feet to the yard.

What we need now is a patriotism that Niagara Falls cannot unstar and a determination that will make mountains do a minuet.

Ten years ago we missed our chance to put our shoulders to the wheel and now we must put 'em to the buzz saw.

And while we are sweating and straining we don't want any worms helping us out with our Apple Week.

We have to add a codicil to free speech keeping agitators in clink and sailors' parrots at sea.

Georgia Association of Peach Growers, said the program would begin with a luncheon at 1 p. m. and be concluded during the afternoon. Due to the general interest in the control agreement, approved at a recent referendum by more than 90 per cent of the growers, more than 200 are expected to attend, he said, and added that other matters pertaining to the welfare of the industry will be discussed also.

Relaxed Auto Rationing Seen By OPM Aide

Frozen Supplies Will Go to Defense Workers, Nugent Says.

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration intends to relax automobile rationing regulations "in a week or 10 days" to help defense workers get new cars, Rolf Nugent, chief of the rationing section of OPM, announced today.

"We must deliver the cars to the people who need them," Nugent told the Pennsylvania Automotive Association convention. "We could lose this war by failure to get defense workers to their jobs. We need passenger cars to help do this because ordinary transportation will not suffice."

The Army probably will ask the freezing of more automobiles in what is known as "Pool A"—those currently available to eligible buyers, Nugent said. In addition, approximately 136,000 automobiles are already frozen for use by the Army and Navy and possible distribution to defense workers after March 2, 1943. Changes in eligibility requirements, enabling more persons to buy cars, are contemplated, he indicated.

Metropolitan Due Today For Opera Season

stars with Lily Pons Thursday night in "The Daughter of the Regiment." And incidentally this opera also makes its local debut.

Feminine Lead.
Bidu Sayao, the Brazilian soprano who will sing the feminine lead in "The Barber of Seville" tomorrow night, will make her first operatic appearance here. Salvatore Baccaloni, the massive comic-basso, who sings here both tomorrow night and Thursday night, will make his Atlanta debut. Though he was in Atlanta last April, only in the role of spectator.

Miss Pons, the picturesque French soprano, who will make her operatic debut here Thursday night, in the title role of "The Daughter of the Regiment," she has appeared here often in concert and is numbered among favorites in the prima donna field.

Charles Kullman, the American tenor, will come in with the caravan. He will sing "Don Jose" in tonight's "Carmen" and, as such, will be an old friend in fancy dress. Or so his many fans won last season in the name role in "Faust" will feel.

John Brownlee, the Australian baritone, who sings "Figaro" in "The Barber," will be another who returns "home." Then there will be Richard Bonelli, who will sing the great "Toreador Song" tonight. He has made his place among Atlanta music lovers, having sung "Valentine" in "Faust" last season and appeared in "Boheme" the year before.

North Carolinian.
Norman Cordón, the tall North Carolinian basso, will be accompanied by his gracious Atlanta-born wife. He will sing "Zuniga" tonight, and replaces Ezio Pinza in "The Barber" tomorrow night. (The basso is still detained by the FBI.)

Still another familiar face will be that of the young American baritone, Wilfred Engelman, who sings in all three operas to be presented here. He was in Cuba last April, and unable to appear here, but will be remembered from 1940 when he sang the role of the "Baron" in "Traviata."

Charming, brunette Licia Albanese whose bell-like voice and sincere artistry won her an ovation here last season when she starred in "Pagliacci," will be back. She portrays "Micaela" tonight, there by copying off one of the loveliest arias in operatic repertoire. Pretty Helen Olheim, the luscious-voiced contralto, and the little Russian mezzo-soprano, Irina Petina, will be with her. The vivacious Russian comic-star sings here for the first time, though she too, has been a guest for opera and dogwood before.

American Conductor.
Frank St. Leger, the American conductor who conducts the last two operas and who is one of Atlanta's all-time favorites, will be in action here for the first time in many seasons. With him will be Edward Johnson, whom local fans know and love.

Earle Lewis, the Met's financial wizard and his daughter, Dianna, also come in this morning. And Edward Ziegler, who has been assistant general manager since 1916, will be among the trainload of celebrities. All three are returning for April "as usual."

Other Met artists arriving today are Allessio de Paolis, George Cehanovsky, and Thelma Votipka—all well-known to local opera-goers.

It will be a gala get-together, all in all. And after the parade, Atlanta music patrons will have but a few fleeting hours to make ready for the premiere. The curtain rises at 8 o'clock, promptly. "On With the Play!"

MANEUVERS IN NORWAY.
LONDON, April 20.—(AP)—The Germans held extensive army maneuvers on the mountains of Norway last Thursday and Friday for the first time. Reuters quoted today a report in the Stockholm newspaper Social Demokraten. Heavy batteries, it said, were set up and fired in the mountains and some areas were barred to the public.

A GREAT CARMEN—That's the way critics the country over have hailed Lily Pons, fascinating soprano, who will sing the title role of Bizet's "Carmen" tonight when the Atlanta "Met" season opens. She is shown here admiring flowers on the terrace of the Biltmore hotel, where the opera stars are staying while in this city.

ACT 1.
Place: A public square in Seville. Time: Year 1820.

A troop of soldiers are killing time outside a great tobacco factory, awaiting the changing of the guard, and, incidentally, a glimpse of Carmen, a lovely Gypsy girl who works in the factory. Micaela, a village maiden, comes upon the scene with a message for her sweetheart, Don Jose, from his mother. Not finding him, she shyly retreats, refusing the soldiers' attentions.

The guard is changed, bringing Don Jose on the scene, as Carmen comes out of the factory with her fellow workers. She is besieged by admirers, but is piqued by Don Jose's indifference. Flinging him a rose (Habanera—"L'amour est un oiseau") she goes back inside, only to be dragged out again and arrested for causing a disturbance. Don Jose is left to guard her, but unable to resist her persuasive charms as she sings her seductive aria Seguidilla. (Pres des remparts de Seville) allows her to escape. She promises to wait for him at an inn on the outskirts of town.

ACT 2.
Place: An inn near the ramparts. Time: Two months later.
Carmen awaits Don Jose in Lillas Pastia's inn. He has been thrown in prison for allowing her escape, but she knows he will eventually come. Her friends, a band of smugglers, try to persuade her to leave with them, but she refuses them, as she does Escamillo, the toreador, who makes love to her (Toreador Song). In the distance, Don Jose's voice is heard. They are reunited (Flower Song), but Carmen's famous air, "Chanson Boheme," suggests further trouble brewing.

Carmen has rejected the advance of an officer, who returns to find her in Don Jose's arms. Furious, he attacks her lover. Carmen calls for help and the gypsy band carry off the officer while she and Don Jose make their escape to the mountains.

Act 3.
Place: The smuggler's haunt. Time: Months later.
Carmen's inability to be faithful to one man for long is proving itself again. Her love for Don Jose is waning and knowing the code of the gypsies she prophesies her doom ("Card Song.") Her lover and the toreador meet, perchance, and Escamillo confides his

Met's Newest Glamor Girl Sings Tonight

Lily Djanel To Interpret 'Carmen' According to Own Views.

By EUGENIA BRIDGES HARTY.
"Carmen" slipped into Atlanta unnoticed Sunday night and remained "lost" here until yesterday afternoon.

Slender, gray-eyed and blonde, Lily Djanel, the Metropolitan Opera Company's newest glamor girl—she'll sing "Carmen" tonight—didn't try to hide. She registered boldly, under her own name at the Biltmore hotel Sunday night.

"She didn't look like the 'Carmen' I've seen," said the night desk clerk, explaining his failure to recognize her.

Lily Djanel doesn't follow the traditional "Carmen" requisites. She could easily be a natural on "movie" standards, however.

Sparkling Chatter.

Her real charm is her sparkling chatter. A few moments' conversation and, though you haven't heard her sing, she impresses herself so upon you, it is easy to understand why Sir Thomas Beecham advised the Metropolitan officials to import her and her feminine version of Charles Boyer accents to play the title role in the revival of the old Bizet favorite.

Miss Djanel was born in Belgium and was educated in Paris, where she also learned something about making her eyes bewitching. When the Nazis entered Paris, where she was singing at the Opera Comique, she left.

"I was to have sung 'Carmen' at the Comique the night they entered Paris. But I run. I loose everything, but I will not sing for the peeps," she said.

Fleeing Paris with other refugees, she made her way to Spain and thence to Portugal. After much difficulty she obtained passage for the United States. She had been asked to sing in this country on a concert tour, and so they let her have a ship reservation.

"But even then I sleep for three nights on the ground of the station. I have no passport, no clothes... nothing."

Rescued by Manager.

If it had not been for her New York manager, she might still be sleeping on the ground in Lisbon.

Of the gypsy role "Carmen," Miss Djanel describes it as her favorite.

"I travel much in Spain. I talk to the gypsies. They are the most complicated people on earth—racy—we call it. They have intermarried so many generations. You must understand them to sympathize with 'Carmen.'"

"She is a fatalist and a gallant one. I play her that way... it is different from other interpretations of the role, yes? But I must play her as I know her, and I know her well."

"Carmen" has been described as the hit of the opera season in other cities this year. After tonight, perhaps Miss Djanel will have more trouble disappearing in Atlanta.

Georgia Funeral Directors To Meet

The Georgia Funeral Directors Association begins its two-day annual convention at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Biltmore hotel. Sessions will continue through tomorrow.

The Fifth District Funeral Directors Association will be host at 6:30 o'clock tonight at a barbecue at Jack Weinstock's farm. A dinner at the Biltmore will close the convention tomorrow night.

Officers are Carlos Hemperley, East Point, president; Cleve Minicy, Waycross, first vice president; T. A. McCord, Fort Valley, second vice president; Mose Bernstein, Athens, secretary-treasurer.

MRS. JOHN DE WITT PELTZ.

Guild's "Opera News" Editor Is Important Visitor Here

By SALLY FORTI.

♦ ♦ ♦ A VERY PROMINENT and important visitor in Atlanta today is Mrs. John De Witt Peltz, the editor of the Metropolitan Opera Guild's weekly magazine called Opera News. Of course the opening of Atlanta's annual season of opera this evening brings her here, where she is not exactly a stranger. For, hundreds of Atlanta opera lovers who are accustomed to listen every Saturday to the radio broadcast of the Metropolitan company, are quite familiar with her cultured voice, since she is often heard as the Opera Guild's representative.

Under Mrs. Peltz's broad vision and guidance, Opera News grew from a one-page edition to a 32-page illustrated publication with 18,000 subscribers. Previous to her connection with the magazine, she took active part in New York Junior League work.

From 1928 to 1930, she was president of the New York League, and served as arts and interests director of the Association of Junior Leagues from 1930 to 1932. She is a graduate of the Spence School and of Barnard College, where she received her A. B. degree in 1920. Gifted Mrs. Peltz was a music critic on the New York Sun and wrote under the name of Mary Ellis Updyke before she married. She is a poet, too, her verses having been published in Harper's, Voices, Town and Country, and other magazines. She has three children, and she includes needlework and mountain climbing as her hobbies.

♦ ♦ ♦ SOON AFTER her engagement was announced in January to Ensign John Henderson Lumpkin, U. S. N., Caroline Dalton, of High Point, N. C., who numbers a legion of Atlanta friends, made a trip to New York. The purpose of her trip was to become Mrs. Lumpkin, but Fate, in the garb of Uncle Sam, intervened, and her fiancé was ordered to Alaska before a marriage license could be obtained.

Caroline, who has frequently visited Martha Burnett (Mrs. Rufus) Carwell, as well as her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Land, of this city, returned home and sadly cancelled the order for her bridesmaids' dresses.

Sally is pleased to relate today that the young couple's wedding took place on April 8 in SEATTLE, WASH., while the groom was on a 10-day furlough. Caroline was advised by wire of John's leave, and boarded the first plane for Seattle.

The wedding took place in the late afternoon in the Episcopal Church of Epiphany, with Rev. Elmer B. Christie officiating. The bride, who wore a powder blue ensemble accented by a shoulder spray of white orchids, was given in marriage by Lieutenant Commander Leslie Bliss, of the United States Navy. John's best man was Lieutenant Edward Houghtaling, U. S. N.

Following the ceremony, friends of the bridal pair entertained at a reception in their honor at the Hotel Olympic. Caroline, you know, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Dalton, of High Point. Ensign Lumpkin is the son of Mrs. Pope Henry Lumpkin, of Columbia, S. C., and the late Dr. Lumpkin, Episcopal clergyman. The bride received her education at Hollins College, and the groom attended Harvard Law School after his graduation from the University of South Carolina, where he was a member of the S. A. E. fraternity. He practiced law in New York before joining the Navy.

♦ ♦ ♦ EVEN THOUGH Connie Furman (Mrs. Joe) Westbrook adores Canton, where she recently moved, Atlanta still has a prior claim upon her. For that reason she hasn't yet relinquished her interest in the various clubs in which she has been a popular member ever since she came here from Greenville, S. C., as a bride several years ago.

Connie arrives this morning to spend a day or so as the guest of Lib Whitman (Mrs. Robert) Hunt at her home on Wycliff road. And her entire two-day visit will be spent attending club gatherings! Today she will be present at

High Heels With Slacks Are Out

By Ida Jean Kain.

Any woman who wears high heels with her slacks should be fined or imprisoned or both, according to a leading fashion magazine. Not that the editors mind if you trip on your trouser cuff and break your neck! It's just for appearance's sake.

The police inspectors who are always telling women the limit of brevity for bathing suits, shorts and the like ought to have their authority extended to weight. If a woman is more than 12 pounds overweight, she shouldn't be allowed on the streets in slacks.

And right along this same line, the woman with a hipline of more than 39 inches shouldn't even think of wearing them. For the short stock woman under five feet four the hipline should measure much less than that. You can see why.

But in spite of a rumor that slacks take too much material—the Washington authorities declare it takes fully two yards more of material for a slacks suit than for a skirt and coat—and are due to be curtailed, it looks as though they will be more popular than ever this season. So it is up to you to get in trim—or else stick to skirts.

Besides bringing your weight down within reason, you will need exercises to tone the hip muscles and slim you down. Here is a trio you can count on:

1. Position: Lie on your back on the floor with knees flexed and feet on floor close to hips. Have arms straight out on floor at sides, shoulder level.

Movement: Hoist your hips clear of the floor, turn them slightly so that the fat pad on the side is brought into direct range, and come down on it with a thump. Keep hoisting, turning and thumping for 20 counts. Rest, then work away on the other hip.

2. Position: Assume a semi-sitting position on the floor, with legs together and straight down, but leaning back on your elbows with weight on forearms.

Movement: Roll away over on one side, then back across the hips and over on the other side. Keep rolling for 10 counts and rest. Then repeat, but this time have feet off the floor, legs straight, as you roll.

3. Position: Lie face downward on the floor, legs straight down. Movement: Raise alternate legs from the hips, high up in back. Keep knees straight and strongly tense the fleshy hip muscles as you raise legs. Continue for 20 counts, alternating legs. Rest, then finish by raising trunk and both legs together as high off floor as possible five times.

Those conditioners will trim you down to a fine form.

Wife's Tears Mean Little In Getting Man To Reform

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I am 20 years old and have been married for three years. My husband and I have a son a year old. For about 6 or 8 months after we were married, we were very happy, but as soon as my baby was on the way my husband began to change toward me. He is never loving nor affectionate but just seems to consider me as a housekeeper or someone he has bought to wait upon him. He never wants me or the baby to go anywhere with him. He does not keep enough food in the house to cook a decent meal and begrudges every cent he gives me to buy the clothes the baby and I have to have to barely get along.

I have stood this, but what is troubling me now is that I have just found that my husband has been lying to me, and that he and another married man have been running around every week end with every sorry girl who will have them. He tells me that his dad, for whom he works, and he have a business trip to make and wants to take me to my mother's home. For awhile I believed him, but it got to be such a habit in the past few months that I began to doubt him. On these nights he never got in before 1 o'clock and sometimes it was as late as three. The other day I went to see my husband's people and happened to find out that he had not been with his dad. They knew how he had been doing but said that they hated to "tattle" everything to me. I told my husband I knew what he had been doing and he just got mad and cursed. I told him I'd gotten so I didn't know whether to believe him or not, but he said he did not care if I did or not. How can I win him back? I have been as good to him as I know how. I have thought about leaving him, but I cannot do that because I love him too much. I am very unhappy and cannot go on like this much longer. What can I do?

SALLY. I hardly see how you would want his love after the way he has treated you. From your letter I think he must be the type who does not appreciate kindness and nice treatment. Perhaps you should demand a bit more from him. Tell him that you have the law on your side and unless he gives more for the support of you and your child that you can make things unpleasant for him. It is a fact that you can make him slip the child, so do not let him slide out of that duty.

As for letting him know that you are aware of his actions, I think it is a good idea that you told him, and I would continue letting him know that you are onto him. Let him know that you are not only indifferent to his affairs with other women, but that you are disgusted, too. You might tell him that he is certainly not getting his child a very good example and that it will be too bad to tell him when he grows up that his childhood was different from other children because his father was such a bad sort.

Begging him to come back to you is not going to help matters, and I think he will be worse if you start any crying and complaining about the way he is treating you. Hard as it may be for you, I think the best thing to do is to assume a superior attitude. Act a little hardboiled sometime and tell him that his whole family knows how he is acting and as far as you are concerned, the whole world can know what a failure he has been as a husband and father.

As for not having enough food in the house, why don't you charge the grocery bill and tell him he will have to pay the bill or go to jail? There is no excuse for him treating you like this.

Oldest Role Ever Played by Star Goes to Actress Barbara Stanwyck

By Harold Heffernan.

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.—"The Great Man's Lady"—Pioneer men have been glorified generously on screen but this is first time woman behind the man wins consideration... from Vana Delmar's magazine story, "The Human Side," Director William A. Wellman conceived idea of building complete movie around a pioneer woman.

In playing woman of 100, Barbara Stanwyck essays oldest age ever attempted by a star... compared to this ripe old timer, Spencer Tracy was 84 in "Edison, the Man," Robert Donat 80 in "Good-bye, Mr. Chips" and Helen Hayes was somewhere in eighties in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet." Old-age makeup nothing new for Barbara, who played a 65-year-old in

"So Big," a 60-year-old in "Forbidden" and attained 55 in "Stella Dallas." Wally Westmore created her centenarian makeup on assumption that no person at 100 looks like self at 20 or even 35... So Barbara actually looks little like Barbara... To settle argument whether aged women speak falteringly, Barbara spent an afternoon at an old ladies' home, found them all mentally alert... She patterned her carriage, bent back, bent knees and stiffness of joints from those with whom she talked.

Katharine Stevens is daughter of Director Sam Wood... This is her first film role... Strangely, Katharine Stevens was the name of Barbara Stanwyck's mother...

Anna Q. Nilsson has her most important film role since she was badly injured in fall from horse in 1928, at height of her career... It required eight years for her to walk again... Brian Donlevy, who plays a gambler and has played more gamblers than any other star, has never learned to play any card game in real life—much to disgust of Mrs. Donlevy, a bridge fiend... Home of the 100-year-old lady was filmed at a house in Sierra Madre, built around 1878... Los Angeles has many such homes but busy traffic prevented sound filming... This is fifth time Barbara has co-starred with Joel McCrea... Always happily married in previous pictures, their first divorce comes in "The Great Man's Lady."

"The Spoilers"—fourth picturization of Rex Beach's best-seller novel, first published in 1905... second time as a talkie... best remembered, of course, is hard-bitten original in which Tom Sant- schi and William Farnum waged what many still believe is rip-roaringest battle ever filmed... Oldtimers recalled that Farnum and Sant- schi completed that fight, with seven cameras, grinding, in less than 45 minutes... brawl of current film, featuring Randolph Scott and John Wayne, required two days shooting.

Mrs. Gene Nardin, the former Miss Jennie Champion, of this city, is pictured with her young son, Gene Jr. The charming pair resides in Orlando, Fla., where Captain Nardin is serving with the Medical Corps at Orlando Base hospital. MY DAY: Care of Children Is War Work

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY, Sunday.—After lunch on Friday, I flew up with Secretary Morgenthau and dined with the Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau at their home in Beacon. Then I spent the night at Hyde Park. So many things were coming to mind that I could not sleep. I thought of the valley, bulbs of various kinds and lilac bushes. I longed to stay and watch them grow, but that was not possible, so Saturday morning bright and early I left by train for New York City.

There were a great many girls from the Bennett Junior College on the train. Three of them came to tell me that they were freshmen, but had taken special courses during the year which they thought would help them during the summer to do some useful work. On every side they were meeting with discouragement.

People told them that, unless they had a degree, they would not be acceptable, for instance, in a nursery school or in a day nursery, or in some creation program for young children. This seems to me rather foolish, for the best training in the world is practical experience. Every defense community must be conscious of the fact that it is going to find it imperative to start both nursery schools, day nurseries, and recreation projects for children.

Since more women will be taken into industry, it will mean that more children must be taken care of by someone in the community during the working hours. No woman will do a good day's work if she thinks of her child as crying at home.

So, in the interests of production at home, it is war work to take good care of the children of defense workers. We cannot have enough trained people in the country to do all that is needed, and girls who want to volunteer after one year in college, should certainly find some opportunity open to them.

At noon in New York City I visited the Knoedler Galleries to see a beautiful collection of Flemish primitive paintings, which is being shown for the benefit of the Belgian relief. It is well worth seeing. Many of the paintings come from the gallery in Brussels. They were sent over here as a traveling exposition in 1938 and we are fortunate to have this opportunity of seeing them, as well as to help the Belgian boys who are still fighting with the Allies. One young Navy boy who was there yesterday had been twice torpedoed and rescued.

Then I visited the Naval hospital because, at last, the doctors have discovered what has been keeping Franklin Jr. from regaining his strength. He is back there this time to stay until he is really well.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—Before 9:31 a. m. is better suited for taking on the important responsibilities or routine work, although your energy and vitality will be greatly augmented. This is not a favorable period for new beginnings.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—A number of (darker) predominate today, which will bring a steadiness into your life. There are, if you encountered difficult situations yesterday, they should be somewhat cleared up now.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Activity and foresightfulness can be utilized excellently in all work this morning and until 1:30 p. m. except around machinery, hardware and iron.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—Do not overload yourself, especially in financial arrangements, before 3:06 p. m. The influences predominating before this hour may incline you to jump into things that you feel sure will be successful.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—Today probably the most auspicious day of the week favoring general business, buying and selling. An excellent day for decisions in general.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—The combined influences operating throughout the entire day make this a very negative day. The affairs you are attempting will seem to get nowhere. Changes, especially important changes, are not favored, and more care than usual should be given to diet.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—Previous to 2:12 p. m. it will be well to avoid brusqueness, arguments and acting impulsively. Between 2:12 p. m. and 7:34 p. m. favors dealings in land, with older people and those with conservative ideas.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—Use especial caution in travel, previous to 7:10 a. m. However, between 7:10 a. m. and 5:43 p. m. property interests, domestic matters and home affairs should prove a source of gain and pleasure.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—This should be a favorable day for grasping opportunities and making advances. Your efficiency should be increased.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—Social duties, domestic affairs and work requiring gentleness will make happy progress today, but it is an inauspicious time for contacting influential people, officials and those who are in authority.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—You will have a desire to enlarge upon things and if you go shopping, or negotiate or various articles, you are apt to have a desire to buy more than you need. You are likely to reason that you will have the finances to take care of greater obligations.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—The mental energy of yourself and those around you will be keen the entire day, but your judgment is not reliable. Therefore, this is not a favorable day for making decisions.

How To Recognize Signs of Cancer

By Dr. William Brady.

They tell me this is Cancer Month—and I don't mean astrology. I never can get enthusiastic about such "weeks" or "months" and I'd rather not be bothered even about "days," if you don't mind.

But cancer is different. For quite a while now I haven't said a word about cancer, in this column. Not because the frowns of a certain class of people intimidate me, but it just happens I have been pounding away on other lines for a while.

Now I'm going to try to print the common

DANGER SIGNALS OF CANCER.

1. Any sore that does not readily heal, particularly if it is in or about the mouth or at any other body orifice.

2. Any wart or mole that changes in color, size or appearance; or that is situated on a part of the body subject to chronic or constant irritation from the clothing, whether or not there is change in color or appearance, and particularly if it is on one of the feet.

3. Any lump, especially a lump in the female breast.

4. Any unusual discharge from any of the body cavities, particularly if it is blood-stained.

5. Digestive disturbance or persistent discomfort purporting to be "indigestion" developing in a person between 45 and 65 years of age.

Some people contend that the average reader I, Q. is that of a 12-year-old child. I don't know about that, but I believe the I. Q. of readers of this column is considerably higher than that and so I print these danger signals, confident that readers who may become at all suspicious or alarmed about their own trouble will act as intelligent people—that is, not worry about it but go straight to a physician and find out.

After all, our greatest worries, fears or dreads are about what we do not know. Dread, doubt and delay are the great allies of cancer. The most potent weapons we have for fighting cancer are, first, knowledge, and second, taking it in time.

Milk

With a Spoon

There's no doubt children need plenty of the nourishment that milk supplies best... calcium for strong teeth, body-building proteins, protective vitamins.

Yet many children get tired of drinking so much milk; some cannot digest it readily. Here's an easy way to increase daily milk consumption. Make it into delicious eggless, non-cooked custards with "Junket" Rennet Powder (six flavors). Takes but a minute, and these colorful, tempting desserts appeal to the appetite of everyone. The rennet enzyme makes them easier to digest than plain milk. (At all grocers).

Hopkins Urges United Nations To Pool Ships

Special Envoy, Marshall Return From London, Report to F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP) Harry L. Hopkins, just back from a mission to London with General George C. Marshall, emphasized today the need for effective pooling of United Nations shipping to speed the war effort.

One of the problems he discussed in London, he disclosed, was the "building of ships, the use of ships, the whole question of supplies from our two countries to various United Nations, particularly supplies to Russia, China, Australia."

"This involves vast amounts of shipping. It requires a real pooling of all the ships the United Nations own."

In answer to questions at a press conference, he indicated a pooling arrangement would lead to a better use of ships, and better regulation of the routes they take.

While Hopkins was talking to reporters, two high naval officers were outlining to the International Defense Board suggestions for protecting the movement of vital war materials between the Americas.

Rear Admiral W. O. Spears suggested a study to determine what sea and air escorts might be provided by each republic. He recommended the protection of shipping within the coastal areas of each of the republics.

Rear Admiral Stanford C. Hooper discussed security of communications, and urged active by each nation to locate and eliminate clandestine radio stations.

Hopkins, who is lend-lease supervisor and member of the War Production Board, told reporters it is "going to take everything we've got to win" the war.

"There is work to be done and fighting to be done," he said, "and guns have got to be produced and fought against our enemies."

"These enemies of ours shouldn't be underated for a minute," Hopkins and General Marshall, the Army chief of staff, gave a verbal report to the President today and Hopkins said they probably would see the chief executive several times this week.

Nazis Order 30 Hostages Shot in France

80 More Threatened in Bombing of German Troop Train.

VICHY, Unoccupied France, April 20.—(AP)—German occupation authorities at Rouen have ordered the execution of 30 French hostages for the bombing of a German troop train April 16 in which a "large number" of German soldiers were killed, it was announced officially today.

A German notice said further that 80 more hostages would be shot if those guilty of this attack were not turned over for punishment by Thursday. In addition, 1,000 "Communists, Jews and sympathizers" were ordered deported to eastern Europe.

To prevent further attacks on troop trains, the Germans instructed that henceforth a number of French civilians would be forced to accompany German soldiers on all troop trains.

In still another anti-German manifestation, the French Popular party announced that an attempt was made last night to assassinate Jacques Doriot, the party's collaborationist leader, during a speech in a theater at Rennes, Brittany. A woman on the stage was said to have tossed the bomb into the orchestra pit, where it exploded harmlessly.

'Defend America' Review Repeated

"You Can Defend America," patriotic review seen by some 2,000 Atlantans April 12 at the Erlanger theater, was repeated by popular request yesterday afternoon and last night at the city auditorium. The morale-building program, featuring a cast of 89, was sponsored by the Citizens Defense Committee of Georgia, the Fulton County Defense Council and the Defense Council of Atlanta. Members of the cast met with Atlanta businessmen, defense and army officers and church and labor leaders at a "patriotic" luncheon yesterday in the Atlanta Athletic Club. Another luncheon for women also was held at the Capital City Club.

New Legislation Would Provide For Dependents

War Department Sponsors Proposal for Larger Payments.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP) Legislation sponsored by the War Department to provide for dependents of enlisted men in the Army and Navy was introduced in congress today, calling for payments by the men themselves and by the government.

The measure would provide $40 a month for a wife and $10 additional for each child; $35 for one parent, or $45 for two.

Dependents are divided into two classes, A and B. In class A are wives and children; in class B are parents, grandchildren, brothers and sisters of the men in service.

The men would be required to contribute from their pay $20 a month if they have dependents in one class and $25 if they have dependents in both classes if they desired to take advantage of the legislation.

In addition to these payments, the dependents would receive allowance from the government on this monthly scale: Wife $20, with $10 additional for each child; one child and no wife $15, with $10 more for each additional child; divorced wife who has been awarded alimony $20; one parent $15; two parents $25; each grandchild, brother and sister $5.

Additional payments by the Federal Security Administration would be authorized in any cases where it was found that these allowances were insufficient for actual living expenses.

The bill would affect all enlisted men in the Army from the lowest grade of private up to and including the lowest grade of sergeant and men of equivalent rank in the Navy and Marines.

The measure was drafted by the War Department and approved by the Budget Bureau. It was introduced in the senate by Senators Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, and Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, and in the house by Representative Edmiston, Democrat, West Virginia.

Other legislation broadening the law preventing foreclosures of mortgages on homes of selectees was introduced by Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the Senate Finance Committee.

Under his bill, draftees called into service after October 17, 1940, who incurred obligations on their homes after that date but before their induction, would be protected from foreclosures. The present law, said George, affords protection only to men who had incurred the obligations prior to October 17, 1940.

Georgian Films

Wariest of Fowls

Wild turkeys, one of the most wary of all fowls, strutted before a motion picture camera on the Herbert Stoddard plantation near Thomasville. The camera, of course, was concealed behind a blind.

Stoddard, a bird lover and an authority on quail, told all about it over the weekend at Athens, where the Georgia Ornithological Society was holding its tenth semiannual meeting.

The film, called "Birds of the Thomasville-Tallahassee Region," was exhibited by H. L. Beadel, a member of the Co-operative Quail Association, who had helped make the picture.

Church Council Urges Atlantans To Vote May 27

Resolution Asks Citizens To Accept Their Responsibility.

A resolution urging Atlantans to vote in the coming mayoralty election was adopted by the executive committee of the Christian Council of Atlanta at a meeting yesterday.

The resolution, offered by Dr. Louie D. Newton, chairman of the civics committee, said:

"The executive committee of the Christian Council of Atlanta urges the citizens of Atlanta to re-list and vote in the approaching election for a mayor, even as we would urge all good citizens to register and vote in all elections."

"The Christian Council has no candidate for mayor of Atlanta. We are deeply concerned, however, that the Christian people of our community should accept their responsibility in choosing a man for this important office who will stand for enforcement of law and courageously lead the community in safeguarding its moral welfare. With so many men of the armed services located here and with the unprecedented need of maintaining the highest possible moral standards in this crucial hour in the life of our city and state and nation, we feel deeply the obligation upon every good citizen to exercise unusual care in the choice of our public officials."

"Praying our Father's blessings upon our people as we face this responsibility, we appeal to every Christian in Atlanta to pray as he or she votes."

NORSE SCHOOLS QUILTING.

Reuters reported today, quoting the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet. The Swedish press assumed that the effect of the order may be a virtual suspension of education in Norway.
